

Mrs. Martin's Newsletter

January 13, 2017
No school 1/16 and 1/20

lisa.martin@district196.org

651.683.6820

<http://mrsmartin302.weebly.com>

Literacy Update:

Today the kids will be bringing home our newest class book about Kevin Henkes. We have worked so hard researching and learning about his life and work...Hope you enjoy!

On Monday, we began a new unit about the Anishinabe (original) people. We have been enjoying hearing many of their legends and stories that have been passed down through time. We will continue to study these native people for the next several weeks looking closely at their life over time and comparing and contrasting past and present traditions.

General information:

The library has been transformed...we get to experience a "Staycation" each time we go! The kids have enjoyed imagining being somewhere warm and tropical as they read and check out their books.

On that note....I will get to experience the real thing! I will be out next week

(T,W,TH) as my husband and I are celebrating our 20th anniversary in Cabo, Mexico. Please do not send pending things via email, as I will have limited access. My sub will be

Mrs. Sara Farrell.