Literacy updates:

We are almost through our Building Community unit. Many routines are in place and kids are getting Managed Independent Learning expectations figured out. Beginning after MEA, we will transition to our first science unit of study, which is "Plants".

Math updates:

We have been reviewing "fact families." This focus will continue through next week. It is essential that kids see the relationship between addition and subtraction as we begin solving word problems that have missing addends. We will also be using the computer lab next week to learn about a new math program called DREAM BOX. Look for information to come home next Thursday as to how to log in at home!
